

Extra credit implementation

I implemented the `-i` option for user interactive command line.

The scanner will read the command line and decide the action (to calculate top J, to calculate k means, to set the default similarity score mode, or to quit).

This implementation allows the user to interact with the program.